活動簡介

This activity aimed to cultivate children's love for nature and respect for all life in the natural world by allowing them to experience the farming process, learn the names of insects, animals, and plants.

Children first learned about farming tools such as shovels, rakes, and watering cans. Through hands-on experience of turning the soil, planting, and watering, they truly felt the hard work of farmers. The children also visited the "Farmhouse" and "Fishing House," learning how to grow plants and fruits and vegetables. In addition, the children used magnifying glasses to observe insects in the soil, discovering caterpillars and ants, and carefully observing the patterns on flowers and leaves, noting the unique veins on the leaves of each plant. Through this activity, children not only improved their observation skills and curiosity but also cultivated a love for nature.
