活動名稱

Visiting the Hong Kong Zoological and Botanical Gardens

活動目標

- Learn the names of the animals and plants in the zoo and understand the habits of different plants and animals.
- Children can use their senses to explore the physical characteristics of plants and animals in the garden, thus enhancing their observation skills.
- Cultivate children's attitude of protecting nature and animals during visits.

活動簡介

The Hong Kong Zoological and Botanical Garden is the oldest park in Hong Kong. The eastern part of the park, known as the "Old Park," features a children's playground, aviary, conservatory, and fountain platform garden; the western part, known as the "New Park," primarily houses mammals and reptiles. Participants will visit both the "Old Park" and the "New Park" separately with their teacher. Before the visit, teachers will distribute "mini-task reports" to the children, requiring them to collect information about different plants and animals within the park, such as their origin, animal names, and three exhibits related to Hong Kong history. Upon completion of the task, children will receive a small gift.
